Don't Let Child Get 'In Command'

By Dr. David Goodman

"Direct your children: don't let them command you."

This is the valedictory advice of Dr. Sidney Valentine Haas, speaking out of 60 years' experience as a pediatrician. He is still active in his profession at 90 and has been cited by the N. Y. Academy of Medicine for many valuable contributions to child medicine. He loves children and has served them faithfully for a longer period of time than probably any other doctor. But he nevertheless says of them: "How they order their parents around nowadays is simply shameful."
